Recent reviews tell us we should:

- Put children at the centre of what you do and to listen to what they say
- Make every contact count, focus on getting it right first time
- Keep clear and accurate records
- Use supervision sessions to constructively challenge decisions and reflect on practice
- Think family, including fathers and partners
- Be alert to the risk of self harm and suicide in children
- Take responsibility for your own learning. Keep up to date.
- Be alert to the risk of domestic abuse, drugs, alcohol and parental mental health
- Always share information and action
- Get to know the LSCB policies and procedures www.cumbrialscb.com/pagesall.aspx?id=260

And always remember the golden rule: share information and agree action
